

Dear Mr. Casey :

January 3, 1982

This is my personal appeal to You for Your help in letting me live free, unmolested by [redacted] a CIA official for Your help in delivering me from an enslavement by [redacted] a CIA official.

I wish You to forgive me for being honest and blunt. I have chosen to be honest and blunt rather than otherwise, because obviously no useful purpose can be served by diplomatic euphemism in my situation.

I think that [redacted] a high ranking CIA official and my former brotherly friend during the Korean War of early 1950's, has turned into a fiendish, fascist abomination. Therefore, he must be fired or forced to resign from CIA. If CIA does not have enough guts to fire him, then CIA must be able, at the least, to forbid him to molest me any more.

I am attaching herewith my December 19 letter to Judge Ragno, which is a follow-up of my May 19 letter to the same Judge. I already sent to You my May 19 letter in last September. Both letters deal with the same theme, though each from slightly different perspectives and angles, and must be considered in conjunction.

In these two letters, You will read how I have been deprived behind my back by [redacted] of a regular source of income how I have been stripped behind my back by [redacted], of a Proper legal Protection, how I have been robbed behind my back by [redacted] [redacted] of My Personal freedom, which in their sum total, amounts to a shameful attempt at fascization, a shameful attempt to turn CIA into a kind of Gestapo.

In these two letters, You will read how I have been subjected to numerous illegal arrests, Mock trials, Starvations, evictions and illicit surveillances, which in their sum total, amounts to a complete Mockery of Judiciary system of this country.

Of course, these are not all, but only a Part of my grievances against [redacted]. The other Part is what has been taking shape in [redacted] because of the [redacted] and [redacted] bungled covert operations in [redacted]. Here again, I can be blunt and brief. As a result of [redacted] messed-up covert operations and the [redacted] the tension in [redacted] has reached a point where it can boil over at any moment.

Thus, I summed up in my December 19 letter :

the United States can not be safe without putting an end to the [redacted] because it is a shameful attempt at fascism, because it is a road leading to another military conflict in [redacted] and because it is a road leading to a tragic failure of US foreign policy in East Asia.

[redacted] My former brotherly friend, though richly endowed with a cunning ingenuity, lacks the essential capacity of making a balanced and mature judgement. And neither a ruthless fanaticism nor a narrow-minded meanness, which abound in [redacted], my former brotherly friend, can compensate, or be substituted for, his flawed capability of judgement.

I am convinced that these two letters must show you more than enough reasons why [redacted] my former brotherly friend, should be fired or forced to resign from CIA. In this connection, I wish to pose a question: Really, can anybody reasonably argue that it is for the benefit of the United States to leave a high ranking CIA official such as [redacted] my former brotherly friend², without any accountability for his absurd and ignominious behaviors before this country, before the American People, last but not least, before the humanity, as long as he sticks by CIA regulations ?

I humbly beseech You for a careful consideration of my attached letters and for an appropriate action. In Particular, I urge You not to wait until after it will become too late.

Sincerely
